Eat the Pancake Monster for Charity at Brian's 24

By Darlene Horn | February 5, 2014

Who wants to gorge on breakfast food for a good cause? This Thursday from 6 AM-noon, Brian's 24 - Downtown San Diego's only 24-hour restaurant - will host a pancake eating contest in honor of its 5th anniversary. Contestants have one hour to conquer the "pancake monster" - three fried eggs, five hot cakes, four strips of bacon, two sausage patties, an 8 oz. ham steak and an 8 oz. fried steak served on a bed of home fries. The meal is $29.99 but free to those who finish the meal in the allotted time. Regardless of who finishes, the Humane Society benefits. The restaurant will donate $5 for every person who enters and $50 for every person who cleans their plate. Winners also receive a free shirt, pet goodie box and one month pass to a gym. Visit the Brian's 24 website for more details.
